

Birding Without Borders - Noah Strycker

--Noah found these cute little Black-and-yellow Broadbills in Borneo. They are native to southeast Asia and Indonesia.

--Noah took one of the weirdest rides of his Big Year on this narrow-gauge railway in Colombia. The contraption is powered by a motorcycle at the rear and is affectionately nicknamed “La Brujita” - “the Little Witch.”

--Noah stands beside the stack of field guides he needed to identify the thousands of unfamiliar species he would find on his round-the-world trip. They didn't fit in his backpack, so he scanned most of their illustrations and took them with him as digital files.

--Noah looks out over an expansive vista of water and wet sand on the famous Indonesian island of Bali.
